

SAINTS SIGN CLARK

Limestone College Head Basketball Coach Brandon Scott has announced that Stewart Clark, Jr. will join the Saints for the 2008-09 season. Stewart is a 5-foot 10-inch guard from Atlanta, GA.

“Stewart is exactly what we were looking for from the guard position,” pointed out Scott. “He is an outstanding player who can play both guard positions very well. He has a lot of weapons to his game, so we are so excited to have signed him. He is a guy who wants to get better; he is a good student, and comes from a great family. We expect him to be an immediate impact player and he is another great addition to our basketball program.”

Clark comes to Limestone after an impressive four-year career at Hiram High School. He was a two-time All-Region selection, two-time team MVP, and was named Second-Team All-State as senior. He was a four-year starter and also earned Best Offensive Player honors as a freshman. Last year, he led his team to a 24-7 record and the Final Four of the AAAAA Georgia state tournament.

He is the son of Karen and Stewart Clark, Sr., of Douglasville, GA. He will major in sports management at Limestone.
